La hiperconectividad del nuevo siglo determina, nos guste o no, un flujo informativo permanente: vivimos pegados a una pantalla, recibiendo datos. Si no es la TV es el mail, o Facebook, o Twitter, o la computadora, o el sms que pasa de goteo a temporal. «Funes el memorioso» se ha hecho realidad: la información abrumba y no hay tiempo para detenerse a pensar. Desde esa perspectiva, el investigador argentino Rodrigo Quian Quiroga produce el extraordinario cruce entre las neurociencias y la obra de Jorge Luis Borges, y con esas herramientas, que son las mejores posibles, se lanza a explorar los mecanismos que rigen nuestra memoria, explica con deslumbrante claridad el comportamiento de ciertas neuronas y se pone un traje de narrador sobre el uniforme del científico para que el viaje por el cerebro humano que ensaya aquí sea tan divertido como revelador.
